

CONTEST FOR FAIR'S QUEEN

Queen Contest Editor,
Arizona Republican:
Dear Sir:

I submit.....votes for Miss
for Queen of the State Fair.

This coupon is worth Five (5) votes.

It was announced yesterday evening by the manager of the contest that the balloting for the queen of the state fair would continue until Friday. This will give two days longer than was originally intended for the casting of the votes, and all contestants will doubtless welcome the extension which has been granted.

The list of prizes will positively be announced on Thursday. Saturday is to be the day that the queen will be crowned at the fair, and all sorts of interesting arrangements have been made for her reception. An automobile parade will be one of the features of the exercises.

Miss Pearl McGrath's friends yesterday succeeded in raising that young woman to the top of the contest and this morning she is leading her nearest contestant by nearly ten thousand votes. Miss Barker had first place according to the count of yesterday morning, but lost her lead during the day.

HERE'S THE FAMED "TUNE THE OLD COW DIED ON."

A Dublin letter to the Gallic-American, a newspaper published in New York, tells of the war's effect on Ireland as shown in the heavier taxation which is to come. But it does more, it quotes verbatim "the tune that the old cow died on." Everyone is familiar with this reference, but few have ever heard the song itself.

After reviewing the Irish party's fight against the increased liquor tax last year, the writer tells of the cabinet conference in London to "consider the situation," continuing:

"It is the tune that the old cow died on:

There was a poor man that had an old cow,

And he had no grass to give her,

So he took down his fiddle and played her a tune,

"Consider, good cow, consider! This is no time o' year for the grass to grow,

"Consider, good cow, consider! The upshot of the considering does not concern the Irish electorate. Their duty is to pass votes of confidence, and pay the increased taxation, which will be somewhere about 45 million dollars a year."

LONG KNOWN.

"Father," said the minister's son, "my teacher says that 'collect' and 'congregate' mean the same thing. Do they?"

"Perhaps they do, my son," said the venerable clergyman; "but you may tell your teacher that there is a vast difference between a congregation and a collection."—Christian Register.

WHERE THE CURE FAILED.

A young lady who lisped very badly was treated by a specialist, and learned to say the sentence: "Sister Susie's Sewing Shirts for Soldiers." She repeated it to her friends, and was praised upon her mastery performance.

"Yeth, but ith thuth an eccheedingly difficult remembe to work into a conversation—ethpecially when you conthider that I have no thithier Thuthie."—Everybody's.

The first milking will take place at 4:30 o'clock. An invitation is extended to all dairymen in the valley to be present and watch the demonstration. The milking is done in airtight pails, thus avoiding all possibility of contamination.

At the same time a new separator put on the market by the Sharples people will be in operation.

INVALUABLE HISTORICAL DATA

Posterity will give due credit to the efforts of the Pennsylvania commission in charge of the observance of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg, held during the first week in July, 1913, not only for the masterful way the great work attendant on the reunion was handled, but also for the manner in which the commission has preserved the records pertaining to that wonderful occasion.

The commission entrusted to its secretary, Colonel Lewis E. Beiler, to whom much of the credit for the success of the reunion was due, the work of gathering and collecting the data that can be used in a historical way in the future, and Colonel Beiler, after almost four years' association with the commission, has completed that work and filed the data in the State Library, where future historians may avail themselves of this valuable and most interesting information. Not only has Colonel Beiler filed the report of the work of the commission, but he has filed also much that will be of intense historical interest to the nation in the years to come.

Among the things thus presented at the State Library are the autograph manuscripts of all the addresses delivered at the reunion; the original correspondence leading up to the observance of the anniversary; photographs of prominent participants; panoramic and group photographs of the veterans on the old battle ground; thousands of newspaper clippings descriptive of the event; autograph albums containing

MOOSE TO ATTEND THE CARNIVAL ON SANICHAS

At last night's highly successful Moose smoker appeared one C. J. Sanichas, who invited his brethren to attend the carnival. Sanichas is the only man in Phoenix who has the right to do this, and every Moose accepted.

Moose will form a line at the home at 7:30 this evening and receive tickets to all the shows. At 8 o'clock, headed by the Indian School band, they will march down the street and take possession of the Canyon in all its splendor, and call it their own for the evening.

Not unimpaired of the "newspaper men of the night," whose ungodly hours for toiling prevent their attending such festivities, the kind-hearted Moose, after the smoker last evening, sent to The Republican office a large quantity of toothsome sandwiches and splendid cigars, which were gratefully received and eagerly consumed by the editorial and mechanical force.

The names of thousands of the veterans who wore the blue and gray; flags and medals used at the reunion; the minute book of the state commission; reports of the commissions of the states that participated; plans and maps of grounds, buildings and tents—in fact, everything of interest pertaining to the work.

Colonel Beiler, in his last report accompanying the depositing of these treasures in a safe place for posterity says he does so in the sincere hope that they "may prove in the future of interest to those who, coming after, may so cherish all the more the history of valorous deeds at Gettysburg in viewing the record of this reconciliation, this reunion of a nation, by the same brave men on that same field a half-century after, and that stands unparalleled in the world's recorded history."

Pennsylvania indeed owes a debt of gratitude to the commission and its incomparable secretary, Colonel Beiler. The Star-Independent, Harrisburg, Pa.

WASN'T NO FIRE—A false alarm received from box 22 last night, interrupted homegoers from the carnival at 11:30 o'clock.
